

Rights of data subjects under the Regulation

The data subject has the right to the following:

Access to personal data (pursuant to Article 15 of the Regulation and Section 21 of the Act):

The data subject has the right to obtain from HOLLEN confirmation that personal data concerning him / her are being processed. If HOLLEN processes such personal data, the data subject has the right to access such personal data and information on:

- Purposes of personal data processing
- The category of personal data processed
- Identification of the recipient or category of recipient to whom personal data has been or is to be provided, in particular of the recipient in a third country or of an international organization
- The retention period of personal data
- Right to request correction of personal data from HOLLEN concerning the data subject, their deletion or limitation of their processing, or the right to object to the processing of personal data
- Right to file a complaint to the Supervisory Authority
- Sources of personal data if personal data have not been obtained from the data subject
- The existence of automated individual decision making, including profiling (including information on the procedure used and the relevance and implications of such processing of personal data)
- Adequate transmission safeguards when personal data is transferred to a third country or international organizations.

HOLLEN provide the data subject with a copy of the personal data being processed. HOLLEN may charge a reasonable fee corresponding to administrative costs for the repeated provision of personal data requested by the data subject.

If the data subject has made a request by electronic means, the information shall be provided in the commonly used electronic form, unless the data subject has requested otherwise.

Right of rectification (pursuant to Article 16 of the Regulation):

The data subject has the right to have HOLLEN correct incorrect personal data concerning him / her without undue delay. With regard to the purpose of processing personal data, the data subject has the right to add incomplete personal data.

Right of erasure (right to be forgotten under Article 17):

The data subject shall have the right to have HOLLEN delete his personal data without undue delay if any of the following reasons are fulfilled:

- Personal data are no longer necessary for the purposes for which they were collected or otherwise processed
- The data subject withdraws the consent (see below) under which processing is carried out, unless there is another legal basis for processing

- The data subject objects to a processing which is carried out on a legal basis of public interest or a legitimate interest (see below) and does not outweigh any legitimate reasons for processing
- Personal data was processed illegally
- Personal data must be deleted in order to fulfill a legal obligation under European Union or local law
- Personal data has been collected in connection with the offer of information society services under Article 8 (1). 1 of the Regulation.

This right shall not apply where the processing of personal data is necessary, for example, to exercise the right to freedom of expression and information, to fulfill a legal obligation, or to fulfill a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of public authority entrusted to the controller. health, for archiving purposes in the public interest, for scientific or historical research, or for statistical purposes, to establish, enforce or defend legal claims.

Right to Restrict Processing (pursuant to Article 18 of the Regulation):

The data subject has the right to have HOLLEN restrict the processing of personal data in one of the following cases:

- The data subject challenges the accuracy of the personal data during the period allowing the controller to verify the accuracy of the personal data
- The processing is unlawful and the data subject objects to the deletion of personal data and asks instead to restrict their use
- The controller no longer needs personal data for the purposes of processing, but the data subject needs it to prove, assert or defend legal claims
- The data subject has objected to the processing, which is carried out on a legal basis of public interest (see below), until it is verified that the legitimate reasons on the part of the operator outweigh the legitimate reasons of the data subject.

If personal data processing is restricted, HOLLEN may further only store or process such personal data for the purpose of establishing, asserting or defending legal claims, for the protection of the rights of others or for reasons of important public interest. Other processing may only be carried out with the consent of the data subject.

Should the restriction on the processing of personal data be lifted, HOLLEN shall inform the data subject in advance.

Right to data portability (under Article 20 of the Regulation):

While exercising his / her right to data portability the data subject has the right to obtain (in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format) and transfer personal data directly from one controller to another as far as is technically possible.

The right to the transfer of personal data may be exercised provided that:

- Processing is based on a legal "consent" or "contract"
- Processing is carried out by automated means.

Right to object (pursuant to Article 21 of the Regulation):

If the legal basis for the processing of personal data is the fulfillment of a task in the public interest (pursuant to Article 6 (1) (e) of the Regulation or Article 13 (1) (b) of the Regulation) or a legitimate interest (pursuant to Article 6 (1) (f) of the Regulation or Article 13 (1) (b) of the Regulation) the data subject also has the RIGHT TO OBJECT to the processing of personal data concerning him / her, including the objection to profiling.

In the event of such an objection, HOLLEN shall not further process personal data unless it can prove:

- Necessary legitimate reasons for processing that outweigh the interests, rights and freedoms of the data subject, or
- Reasons for establishing, asserting or defending legal claims.

Automated individual decision-making, including profiling (pursuant to Article 22 of the Regulation):

The data subject shall have the right not to be subject to a decision which is based solely on automated processing, including profiling, and which has legal effects which affect or similarly affect him or her.

This right shall not apply if the decision is:

- Necessary for the conclusion or performance of the contract between the data subject and the operator
- Permitted by the law of the European Union or the Slovak Republic
- Based on the explicit consent of the data subject.

Right of withdrawal of consent (pursuant to Article 7 of the Regulation):

Where the processing of personal data is based on the consent of the data subject, the data subject shall have the right to withdraw such consent at any time.

Consent may be revoked in the same way as it was granted. At the same time, the person concerned may also withdraw the consent in the following ways:

- By phone at +421 2 645 38 664
- By sending a written request to the address of HOLLEN s.r.o. with the text "GDPR - withdrawal of consent" on the cover.

Revocation of consent shall not affect the lawfulness of the processing of personal data based on the consent given prior to its revocation.